

Title: Linux Weekend 2017, the must go event in Tirana for every open source geek!

Mark 25 & 26 of March 2017 in your calendar, because Linux Weekend is about to be added in the agenda, a brand new conference in the city with two days totally dedicated to Linux operating system and all it's distros. Talks, workshops, infoboosts and install fests, all at the same place, Faculty of Information Technology, Politechnic University of Tirana.

This event will be organized by Open Labs, a community oriented organization dedicated to promote free libre open source knowledge and initiatives since 2012, now well known among tech enthusiasts, for it's initiatives, knowledge shared, the energy and the inspiration it transmits to the youth.

Inspiring talks and workshops will be presented by very passionate Linux boys and girls, some of which will travel from abroad to come and join us on both days of the conference.

From 10.00 AM to 5.00 PM all the participants will be able to attend the presentations they find more attractive to them, to grab a copy of their favorite distro (and the right help to install it) and also the opportunity to get some information on how to be part and contribute in the different open source project that will have their own info-booths during the conference. Even if somebody has no previous experience or knowledge on Linux, they will certainly find some information useful to them, or somebody whom they can ask for help, they should just be eager to learn and open to communicate.

Participation: Anyone that wants to be part of Linux Weekend can attend free of charge with only a registration here: <http://www.linuxweekend.openlabs.cc/regjistrohu>

For more information please visit: www.linuxweekend.openlabs.cc